

Public Health Project

Improvement in Infection Control Practices in selected PHC (Faridabad, Haryana)

DL Shah Quality Research Centre

(An initiative by DL Shah Trust and Quality Council of India)

Name of the post –Trainer (Public Health Trainer)

Number of post - One

Duration of Project – 2 months (may get extended to further 6 months)

Commitment required by trainer – 25 man days (Minimum) in 2 months

Essential Qualification

Qualified and competent person to impart training in infection control practices. He/ She may be Nursing professional or OT technician or Master in Hospital Administration (MHA)

Desirable Experience

- Experience as a trainer in Infection Control Practices
- Proficiency in Hindi language (read, write & speak)

Job responsibilities

- Coordination between NABH (National Accreditation Board for Hospitals and Healthcare Providers) and Primary Health Centre (PHC)
- Implementation of project assessments & interventions (training programs) on Infection Control Practices as per identified improvement areas
- Implementation/ coordination in conducting training programs in PHC
- Preparation of project related analytic reports, closure reports and presentations
- Candidate should believe in measurable outcomes and deliver project responsibilities in strict time lines
- Any other work given by Project In charge

The position involves regular field visit in the selected PHC in Faridabad, Haryana.

Total Compensation for completion of project

INR 30,000 + Travel allowance

Interested candidates can share their resume on geetika.qrc@qcin.org

Last date for submission of resume: 18th July 2016.